

TRIBUTES FROM AISHA'S FRIENDS

In Loving & Everlasting Memory of Aisha Abba Abdullahi
20th November 2021

Moments with her was always the best, she is a very kind hearted person she speaks only to make you happy... Hurtful words are not her words. May her soul continue to rest in peace.. I wanted to tell her she was the nicest person I have ever met. I wanted to say sorry for not being a great friend. I wanted to tell her how much she has helped me smile. I won't say anything about you leaving us because Allah (Swt) knows best.... I wish I had the opportunity to also put a smile on her face in her hard times. I know she is gone forever and there's no way to get to her if not prayer that is why Inshallah i would continue to pray for her.

Aisha Abba was my childhood friend right from primary school and we were also neighbors...I have so many good and exciting moments with her... especially during our ride back home in junior secondary school and our senior secondary school boarding house experience!.....Me finding out about her having cancer was very painful, and when she had her surgery I believed she was getting better...Until one day in the morning I started seeing posts saying rest in peace....I was so sad and pained,I kept thinking how it happened because she was getting better and all of a sudden this happened....But who am I to question God?...I believe in all things we should thank God and I know God has a better plan for us...Aisha Abba Abdullahi was a Good friend and really close to me...even though I didn't get to see her before she died, I'm happy to have known her! May her soul rest in peace

Aisha Abba was a very good friend of mine in secondary school. We started off as friends late tho, Ss3 when we started doing PHE practicals together and I've never regretted knowing her, she's a vibe, always fun to be with, no dull moment around her like she's also a cheerful giver. I remember during visiting days I'll always go to her flat with a group of friends to mojo (eating competition) like she sabi hype me, Aisha was really a friend even though she's Muslim she flowed like mehnenn, I really bless the day I met her it wasn't an ordinary meeting but a divine orchestration and I'm happy and feel blessed for being her friend even after we graduated, she'll always be like jiri how far na when you go reach my side? I never knew she'd have gone so soon but Allah knows best. I cherish the little moments we spent together, I just wish I could continue writing and writing.

Aisha was not quite a chatty person you'll say, but she was very kind and good to people she knew. I can remember vividly when we were in SS1, when she's coming back to school from home, she brings Chocolates and stuffs like that, just like that and she gives us.. Even when she was battling with cancer, when sometimes we chat, she always make sure she doesn't show to pple that she's very sick or down, she's just normal even tho only God knows what she was feeling at that time, tbh Aisha was the most determined person I've ever known, she fought till the very end.. May Allah grant her Jannatul Firdaus.

TRIBUTES FROM AISHA'S FRIENDS

Aisha was my school mom, we were kinda close, and from the little time I spent with her, her behavior is one in a million, wallahi am saying this not because she is dead or because I want to write something interesting for people to read, Aisha was very honest, calm ,simple and generous. Formally I thought cancer was only meant for old people or people that are too careless about their health, but everything that happened to Aisha changed my perspective.may jannatul firdaus be her final abode,ameen!

For all I know Aisha Abba Abdullahi has a good heart, she is so real, you never hear anyone say anything bad about her ...I'm saying this base on what I know and what I've heard. Aisha was so brave and always had faith...she was determined to not let cancer win, she fought cancer with her killer smile and faith, she never looked sad or sounded sad . we had plans : learning makeup. creating a youtube channel, going to mall of arabia, eating alot of pepperoni pizza, meeting cute uncle(that was my part though) ...ooh I'm sorry I don't know cute uncle's name (mummy's twin) it was a long story cute uncle, buh Allah knows best...I never had the chance to meet Aisha in person buh I always felt like she was a sister and also felt like I knew her for ages... I felt so bad for not coming to meet Aisha before she left us ...she was like I don't know ooo dey said I should go back to the hospital on Wednesday and then the next day she was like I've been admitted fah ... and I asked if everything was fine and she told me what was happening I prayed for her and planned on going to meet her buh she never replied I got mummys number and texted then she told me I can't visit because visitors ain't allowed but will inform me when visitors are allowed ... And u know the next thing I heard was Aisha's death . I was like wait the Aisha Abba I know?! cuz I was unsure ... Truth be told I cried! alot! before I remembered she doesn't need my tears , she needed my prayers.. mummy , daddy, n cute uncle Aisha was so happy n greatfull to have you...may Allah swt make jannah be her final abode, brighten her grave n make it easy for her and all of us. AMEEN

TRIBUTES FROM AISHA'S FRIENDS

Aisha Abba was someone I could relate to easily, because we both spoke Hausa language (when we didn't want others to hear what we were saying) and the memory I really keep holding to, were those of our extension days in snr secondary school, how we carried our big coolers for dinning .how we struggled for food, how we came back to the hostel to practically rush d food(mojo as we call it), we did several eating competitions .we did choreographies, looked for a lot of trouble in the hostel. Aisha was an epitome of strength, and she did all this in love and humility, she wasn't biased.....she loved unconditionally,not minding race, religion or culture she was a vibe, she was pure, I didn't get to talk to her when we graduated, but she collected my number and chatted me up oh!! What a friend, at that time she was battling with this disease and my friend was jovial and optimistic when she died....I was blank...I was astonished by the strength and hope Aisha possessed.....her memory can never be forgotten....Kawa, I miss u sosai Our Mojo group can't be complete again Rip Aisha Abba Abdullahi love you kawana.

TRIBUTES FROM AISHA'S FRIENDS

My Beautiful Aisha I knew Aisha Abba from secondary school , she had to be the sweetest Person I've ever met . I remember in school when I'd go broke I'd literally just go to her room in school because I knew I'd leave there with something, or when we'd all hide in one abandoned room in the hostel because we didn't want to attend night prep. There was never a dull moment around her. She always made sure she carried everyone along. Especially during visiting day , when she'd force me to eat . Mehn Aisha was everything you'd want in a friend, she had such a welcoming spirit. I remember the last time we spoke on a video call, she was showing me her hair that she had to cut due to her battle with cancer. She told me she was keeping waves , it made me happy that she was always smiling in her most difficult times, it made me happy that she had enough fun . There was a time when she was in an Uber in Egypt ,she was showing me her driver telling me that he was very handsome. She had so many ways to express her self, she didn't let her illness affect her happiness. I've made a promise to myself to be an Oncology nurse(Nurses that specializes on cancer) because of Aisha. She was a Strong fighter and I want to make her proud . I believe she's in a better place and she's happy.

TRIBUTES FROM AISHA'S FRIENDS

A respected beautiful young lady 'Aisha Abba Abdullahi' (May her soul continue to rest in peace). In loving memory of a special friend, a sister, she is most caring and loved by all. Aisha always had a smile to share, time to give and time to care. A wonderful nature warm and true you are a special friend and I really do miss you. Having Aisha as a friend was a blessing, she was a true friend, she will always remind you of your salat, I keep memorizing the Dua's she thought me, and she made me know the true meaning of friendship, she treats everyone equally. I will never regret having you as a friend. Aisha called me 'towely' because we had the same type of towel back then in school, whenever I think of her, I see her in her long blue hijab smiling because she always has a big smile on her face especially when we are together, we use smiles as signals. Aisha was a bread lover, we have so much good memories to share and will never be forgotten, Aisha is irreplaceable. Processing my own feelings knowing Aisha was having cancer was so difficult, it was the saddest news of the year. Unfortunately for me I did not get any opportunity to see her face to face because I was in a boarding school, but before she left for Egypt, she sent me a text message. All our focus for her was that she will be better Aisha was stronger than you can ever imagine, Braver than you could think. Aisha have faced many challenges in life to fight cancer "AISHA YOU ARE A FIGHTER". The battle with cancer is long and hard to fight but this is the one she will be glad and happy she fought for. An amazing soul, I wish I got to say goodbye, she will always be in my heart. Her smiling face makes me happy. An amazing friend! Insha Allah Aijannatu Firdaus is your final destination.

TRIBUTES FROM AISHA'S FRIENDS

I've known Aisha since we were both in primary school. Me and Aisha bonded over our love for reading and writing. Last time we spoke I told her about a book I was writing and she told me how excited she was and I couldn't wait to read it. She didn't know but the main plot of the book is on cancer and it's trials and tribulations which I was writing mainly because of her. We didn't speak all the time but whenever we did we made it worth the while. Aisha Abba is missed and will be till the end of times. May Allah bless her soul and I pray we meet in Jannah Insha Allah.

I've known Aisha since we were both in primary school, she was a very fun and lively person, always with a smile, always cracking a joke. We were not what you'll call best of friends, but we were close, in the same class and had mutual friends, and since she left the school. Fast forward to 2018 when we got in contact again, she was always so jovial and excited anytime we speaks, she had an irresistible vibe. I've known Aisha for almost half my life, and not once have I seen her angry or have we had even a mere disagreement. When she got sick, she took it as Qadr and she was always the one consoling me, telling me it'll all be better in sha Allah. That we'll hang out when she comes back. We all love her, but can never love her as much as Allah. She's in a better place in sha Allah. May Allah have mercy on Aisha's soul, grant her Jannatul-Firdaus and give us all the strength and Imaan to bear her loss. May He also accept the work of 3AM as Sadaqatul-Jariya for her. Ameen.
